BAS Research is his vision and his personal mission is to refine and improve the processes of which cannabis-related products are derived and to change the narrative of the industry to remove the public stigma of cannabis.

WPA4A

Whole Plant Access for Autism is a 501(c)(3) organization dedicated to helping educate families and caregivers who are navigating the often confusing and complex world of cannabis. Rhonda Moeller, CEO/cofounder, Jenni Mai, President/cofounder, and Sandy Christianson, Director of Outreach, are all autism/epilepsy moms who have used medical cannabis for their children for 10+ years combined. When all other forms of medication failed, cannabis has been able to save their child and their families. These mothers now work to help others on the same journey.
